About the Course

This course explores components of family studies, sociology, developmental psychology and students' general life experiences. We focus on skills in resource management that enable people to function effectively in their everyday lives, in families and become active and engaged community members. We explore the areas of wellbeing and the impacts this has on groups within our society. Find out more here.

What You Will Do

In this course, you will learn about wellbeing and the needs of individuals, different groups in our society, and the workplace. Assessments are generally extended responses, research projects (student choice) and a final HSC examination. Classwork is a combination of projects, individual research, and the expansion of general knowledge. There is not a lot of note taking but application to real life experiences.

Future Opportunities

This course helps to prepare you for careers in Nursing, Education, Childcare, Social Work, Youth Work and Community Services.
